INVESTMENT YEAR: 2014

REALISATION YEAR: 2019

SECTOR: Technology

Field force automation solutions

Kirona was founded by David Murray, CEO and Neil Harvey, CTO in 2003 with the vision to design, build and deliver market-leading field service management solutions.

The business helps organisations to deliver exceptional field-based services in the most cost-effective way possible. Kirona is a leading provider of field force automation solutions supporting more than 25,000 mobile workers across the globe. The software and services solution enables Kirona's clients to automatically schedule jobs, improve productivity and streamline workflows by connecting clients, offices and mobile workforces more effectively, and the product is well suited to help organisations in the housing, government, field service and healthcare sectors.

We are delighted with the progress that we have made over the past four years. With Livingbridge's support we have realised the ambition of becoming one of the leading specialist workforce management and resource scheduling software providers across multiple sectors.

The right tools for growth

Customer acquisition & retention

We supported the expansion of Kirona's client base through the team securing contracts with prominent businesses including utilities services provider Morrison's Data Services and multinational infrastructure group Balfour Beatty.

Acquire & retain customers →

Tech enablement

We worked with Kirona to support the development of additional complementary IP to sell into its existing 350+ customer base and to support further expansion into new verticals including local & central government, utilities & infrastructure and retail. This included the development of a new workflow management solution launched in early 2019.
