SECTOR: Technology

Email signature software provider

Exclaimer is the leading global provider of email signature software. The business was founded in 2000 and today provides software to over 25,000 customers in more than 150 countries, including blue-chip firms such as the BBC, Audi, Sony and Fidelity.

Exclaimer is an accredited Microsoft Gold partner and provides both on-premise and cloud-based solutions for Office 365, G Suite and Microsoft Exchange. Exclaimer's software facilitates centralised signature management, giving users complete flexibility and control over email signatures and disclaimers. This helps to ensure regulatory compliance while also enabling consistent brand promotion and innovative marketing campaigns.

The right tools for growth

Talent

Our in-house talent team worked closely with Exclaimer to augment its senior team at pace. Since completion, we have introduced a Chairman, CEO, CFO, CMO and CTO, enabling the founders to step back from the business.

Customer acquisition & retention

We helped Exclaimer to successfully extend their product offering to G Suite, serving a broader customer base, and continues to experience significant growth as the market shifts to Cloud. The team has maintained their focus on enhancing product features, supporting customer satisfaction and retention.

Internationalisation

We supported Exclaimer opening a US office in 2019, and the company has continued to grow their staff base outside the UK as the platform grows internationally. The business serves customers across the world and has expanded their data centre footprint for optimal customer service.

Data & insight

We supported Exclaimer with developing a data insight platform allowing management to analyse data and monitor the business, tracking indicators such as sales team activity, return on marketing efforts, and customer satisfaction.

The investment from Livingbridge will enable us to push on even further, adding scale and firepower to our business while still maintaining our entrepreneurial culture of innovation to ensure our customers continue to receive excellent product and services.

Andrew Millington
Founder, Exclaimer

Exclaimer is an impressive company with great technological focus which has demonstrated an ability to iterate their software to lead their market. Our experience of working with high growth tech businesses, combined with Exclaimer's strong management team and award winning reputation, means that the business is extremely well placed to capture the opportunity that the rapid expansion of MS Office 365 brings.

Matthew Caffrey
Investment team

In the last 16 years we have taken a very simple concept and turned it into a global success. Livingbridge's investment will enable us to push on even further, adding scale and firepower while maintaining our culture of innovation to ensure customers continue to receive excellent product and services. We're delighted to be working with Livingbridge and I speak on behalf of Exclaimer when I say we're incredibly excited about our future.
